Management's Discussion and Analysis of
Results of Operations and Financial Condition
First Quarter Report – November 30, 2005

Introduction

This discussion and analysis should be read in conjunction with the financial information included in the accompanying unaudited consolidated financial statements restated as of January 19, 2006. The unaudited consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles. The functional currency of the business is the United States Dollar. All monetary values are expressed in United States Dollars, unless otherwise indicated. This discussion and analysis was prepared as of December 21, 2005 and updated to address the restatement described below.

Endeavour Mining Capital Corp. ("Endeavour" or "Corporation") is a merchant banking company focused on the global natural resources sector. The Corporation originates and invests in equity, equity-linked and debt transactions where it can generate value by using the extensive international expertise of its Board of Directors and investment advisors. The Corporation actively manages its investment capital base and earnings are generated through capital appreciation, fees, and interest.

Overall performance highlights

- Net income of $12.1 million or $0.52 per share (previously reported as $11.0 million or $0.47 per share, compared to $19.8 million or $0.86 per share for the quarter ended November 30, 2004)
- Net asset value per share of $4.80 (CDN$5.60), (previously reported as $4.67 (CDN$5.45)) at November 30, 2005 compared to $4.04 (CDN $4.79) at November 30, 2004

Restatement

Subsequent to filing the financial statements for the quarter ended November 30, 2005, it was ascertained that two security holdings, both of which are exchange traded warrants, were undervalued by the Corporation. The undervaluation was the result of an incorrect consolidation of two warrant positions where the underlying company's common shares were consolidated but its exchange-traded warrants were not. The financials statements have been restated and the impact of the restatement is summarized in the following tables:

Critical accounting policies and estimates

A detailed description of all the Corporation's significant accounting policies is included in Note 2 to the annual consolidated financial statements for the year ended August 31, 2005.

The Corporation's investment valuation policy is critical to the understanding of results described below. For portfolio investments, securities, held in long or short positions, that are traded on a recognized securities exchange and for which no sales restrictions apply are recorded at carrying values based on the last quoted sales price at the balance sheet dates or the closing price on the last day the security traded if there were no trades at the balance sheet dates.

Securities that are traded on a recognized exchange but that are escrowed or otherwise restricted as to sale or transfer are recorded at amounts discounted from market value. In determining the discount for such investments, the Corporation considers the nature and length of the restriction, business risk of the investee company, its stage of development, market potential, relative trading volume and price volatility and any other factors that may be relevant to the ongoing and realizable value of the investments.

Securities in privately-held companies are recorded at cost unless an upward adjustment is considered appropriate and supported by persuasive and objective evidence such as a significant subsequent equity financing by an unrelated, professional investor at a transaction price higher than the Corporation's carrying value. Downward adjustments to carrying value are made when there is evidence of a decline in value as indicated by the assessment of the financial condition of the investment based on operational results, forecasts, financing and other developments since acquisition.

Included in the Corporation's investments are certain instruments that are accounted for as follows:

- Loans are valued at the lesser of the loan value amount plus accrued interest or the amount of the loan deemed to be recoverable.
- Convertible loans and debentures are valued at the greater of their loan value amount as described above or as though converted to the underlying securities.
- Options and warrants for public companies which are not listed or traded on a national exchange are valued at the difference between the exercise price and the quoted market price of the underlying shares, plus an adjustment for time value.
- Options and warrants for private companies are valued at the difference between the exercise price and the carrying value of the underlying shares.

At each quarterly financial reporting period, the Corporation's management determines the valuation of investments based on the criteria above and reflects such valuations as corporate investments in the consolidated financial statements. The resulting values may differ from values that would be realized had a ready market existed. The amounts at which the Corporation's privately-held investments could be disposed of currently may differ from the carrying value assigned due to changes in valuation assumptions resulting from current market conditions. The amounts at which the Corporation's publicly-traded investments could be disposed of currently may differ from the carrying value based on market quotes as the value at which significant ownership positions are sold is often different than the quoted market price due to a variety of factors such as premiums paid for large blocks or discounts due to illiquidity.

Risks and Uncertainties

Management is unaware of any trends, commitments, events or uncertainties that can reasonably be expected to have a material effect on the Corporation's business, except the general risk factors and investment considerations relating to investments in Common Shares disclosed below:

Speculative Nature of Common Shares

The Corporation's Common Shares are speculative in nature and suitable only for investors able to sustain a total loss of their investment. Shareholders should not rely upon realizing any significant returns from Common Shares and should be aware that the value of Common Shares and the income from them could, in common with other shares and bonds, fluctuate. There is no assurance that the investment objectives of the Corporation will actually be achieved.

Risk of Limited Number of Investments

The Corporation intends to participate in a limited number of investments and, as a consequence, the aggregate return of the Corporation may be adversely affected by the unfavourable performance of even a single investment. In addition, as the Corporation's investments are concentrated in the resource sector, their performance will be disproportionately subject to adverse developments in the resource sector.

Mining Development Risks

Mining development involves a high degree of risk which cannot be avoided, even with a combination of careful evaluation, experience and knowledge. Although the Corporation will typically be investing in projects, or companies having projects, in later stages of development, there is no assurance that such projects will prove to be economically feasible and there is also no assurance that the projects owned by companies in which the funds of the Corporation may be invested will be brought into, or continue to be in, commercial production. Investee companies are also subject to government and political risk as well as volatility in commodity prices that can affect the economic feasibility of projects.

Currency and Foreign Exchange Rate Risks

It is anticipated that a substantial proportion of the Corporation's investments will be made in securities denominated or quoted in foreign currencies. Therefore, changes in currency exchange rates as well as associated transaction costs could adversely affect the value of the Common Shares during any period. In addition, the Corporation could also make investments in jurisdictions which may place restrictions on the repatriation of funds. The Corporation does not enter into hedging or derivative arrangements to manage its foreign exchange risk.

Results of Operations

During the three month period ended November 30, 2005, investment income totaled $12.9 million and net income totaled $12.1 million (or $0.52 per share), which compares to investment income of $22.6 million and net income of $19.8 million (or $0.86 per share) during the three month period ended November 30, 2004. The higher earnings in the comparative quarter in the prior year were primarily due to relatively stronger mining equity market valuations during that quarter. Although commodity prices have reached record levels in the current quarter, the equity valuations have not kept pace with the increase.

The Corporation marks its investments to market at each reporting period, and as highlighted in the above table, the Corporation experiences significant fluctuations in its quarterly results which are substantially driven by changes in the unrealized appreciation and depreciation of its investments. The mark to market value of the Corporation's investments is affected by many factors but the primary forces include metal prices and investor sentiment. The Corporation is highly leveraged to its merchant banking investments and, in certain periods, these unrealized movements have been very dramatic. In each of the last 8 consecutive quarters described above, the Corporation has generated net realized gains on investments.

Endeavour employs an operating style that has shown excellent results and allows it to add value quickly and efficiently. The Corporation offers a unique combination of financial and intellectual capital to help build companies and generate shareholder value. It invests in companies with the potential for significant future growth with aggressive management teams either in-place or brought in as part of the transaction.

Endeavour operates in a highly competitive financial marketplace that demands the utmost discretion and confidentiality. Accordingly, its practice is not to disclose sensitive details regarding individual transactions. This practice has been carefully considered with the primary objective of maximizing our potential returns by limiting the possibility of adverse market impacts caused by inopportune disclosure.

The Corporation relies on its investment advisor for new business recommendations, analytical support and guidance for the optimal realization of existing investments. As such, the Corporation has material agreements with the investment advisor that define the services to be rendered and the compensation due.

The aggregate fees payable to investment advisor are an investment advisory fee, calculated and payable monthly as 1/12th of 2% on the first $50 million of net assets, 1/12th of 1.5% on the next $50 million of net assets, and 1/12th of 1% on net assets in excess of $100 million and also receives an annualized performance fee of 20% of the Corporation's net income from operations in excess of a 15% return on the weighted average Shareholders' Equity during the fiscal period.

During the three month period ended November 30, 2005, the investment advisor received an investment advisory fee totaling $0.5 million and no performance fee was accrued. During the comparative three month period ended November 30, 2004, the investment advisor received an investment advisory fee totaling $0.4 million and a performance fee of $2.2 million was accrued. The increase in the investment advisory fee paid to the investment advisor is a direct result of the growth of the net assets of the Corporation. The performance fee accrued at November 30, 2004 was primarily due to the very strong upward movements in mining related equity valuations during that quarter which resulted in significant net income. The combined investment advisory fee and performance fee accrued represent the most significant expenses incurred during the three month period ended November 30, 2005 and November 30, 2004. Other operating expenses which consist of general administrative costs and professional fees were consistent with the comparative quarter in the prior year.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

At November 30, 2005 the Corporation held assets totalling $111.6 million comprised mainly of investments (92%) and cash and cash equivalents (8%) compared to assets held at August 31, 2005 of $103 million comprised mainly of investments (90%), cash and cash equivalents (9%) and other assets (1%).

The liabilities of the Corporation totalled $0.7 million as of November 30, 2005. At August 31, 2005 total liabilities were $4.1 million of which $4.0 million was payable to the investment advisor, and $0.1 million was for other accrued expenses. The Corporation had adequate cash resources as at November 30, 2005 to settle the liabilities.

The increase of $12.1 million in Shareholders' Equity in the Corporation to $110.9 million at November 30, 2005 from $98.8 million as at August 31, 2005 is attributable to operations that generated $12.1 million of net income.

The Corporation has no long term debt, capital lease obligations, operating leases, purchase obligations or other long term obligations outstanding.

At November 30, 2005	575,000	$ 3.00	2.19 years

Outlook

The Corporation's view is that strong, positive economic growth will continue driving the natural resources sector, which is expected to benefit the Corporation's merchant banking positions and aid the creation of new opportunities. The strong economic performance of the capital intensive resource sector has and is expected to continue attracting capital from multiple sources. In this increasingly competitive environment, the Corporation is focused on opportunities where it sees a path to value creation. Looking forward, the Corporation expects this value creation to arise from both its existing core positions as well as from the numerous early stage opportunities in which it is investing.

While earnings volatility should be anticipated, management believes that its superior deal flow and access to potentially high return transactions will result in the continued growth of the Corporation's investment capital base.

4. RESTATEMENT

Subsequent to filing the financial statements for the quarter ended November 30, 2005, it was ascertained that two security holdings, both of which are exchange traded warrants, were undervalued by the Corporation.
